Foreword

An essential mission of the Center of Military History (CMH) is to write the official history of the United States Army. This history provides a comprehensive account of Army activities in peace and war and serves as an important tool in training officers and noncommissioned officers in the profession of arms. This brochure lists all CMH works now in print. These have been and will continue to be invaluable to educators and trainers of all ranks—in the school system and in the field—in bringing the past to serve the future. Collectively considered, these works are broad, comprehensive, definitive, and detailed. They are directly relevant to issues we face today and of immediate use to planners and operators; nothing that we do is without precedent.

U.S. Army personnel may requisition any of the publications listed herein through their publications control officer; see the “How To Order” information on pages 1–2. Most of the titles listed are also available for purchase by the general public from the Government Printing Office (GPO). A GPO order form is located at the end of the brochure. I strongly encourage all who read this brochure to take full advantage of the intellectual capital it represents.

How To Order Center of Military History (CMH) Publications

This brochure is organized generally by series (moving back in time from the Vietnam series to World War I), with separate sections on the Army Lineage Series and on miscellaneous subjects from the recent past to the Revolution. To aid the user to find material, the brochure ends with an appendix on CMH publication (CMH Pub) numbers and titles (which brings titles together by major CMH series) and an index of author names.

Army Requisitions:

All of the publications in this brochure are available to Army publication account holders. Army policy provides accounts to any active Army units that are detachment size and larger and staff sections from division level to Headquarters, Department of the Army (HQDA); United States Army Reserve units that are company size and larger and staff sections from division level to HQDA; Army National Guard units that are company size and larger and staff sections from division level to state adjutants general. Units not described above may be authorized accounts by submitting their requests through command channels to the Manager, U.S. Army Publishing Agency (USAPA) Distribution Operations Facility (DOF), ATTN: JDHQSV-PAS, St. Louis, (USAPA-DOF-St. Louis), 1655 Woodson Road, St. Louis, MO 63114-6128.

As training literature, CMH publications are available for official educational, training, and commemorative purposes within the Army without reimbursement. In turn, however, CMH titles are not in the commonly known DA 12 series. Account holders can requisition departmental publications and forms through initial distribution (ID) or resupply by accessing USAPA's WWW site: <http://www.usapa.army.mil> and using the "Publications Ordering Subscription System." If you need additional assistance, please contact our customer service number (314) 263-7305, Ext. 268, or send e-mail inquiries to usapa-dof.custser@arpstl-publ-emh1.army.mil.

Prior coordination is required through CMH to requisition more than twenty-five (25) copies of any one title.

Other Military Services:

Other military services requiring CMH publications for official use can obtain copies by forwarding a request directly to the USAPA-DOF-St. Louis on agency letterhead. Unless prior arrangements have been made with CMH, the number requested cannot exceed ten (10) copies of any one title.

Public Sale:

Most of the titles in the following list are also available from the Government Printing Office. For research purposes, titles are available at most of the federal depository libraries. For those interested in purchasing any of these publications, we have included the GPO stock number (S/N), the GPO price, and a GPO Order Form. Also, the public can access USAPA's web site (www.usapa.army.mil) and click on a section entitled "Publications Ordering for the General Public" that will link the customer directly to NTIS' web site. GPO prices are subject to change, and between reprintings some titles may be temporarily unavailable. Those items marked with an asterisk are not for sale by GPO. However, you may contact the National Technical Information Service (NTIS), Department of Commerce, 5285 Port Royal Road, Springfield, VA 22161-2171, commercial (703) 605-6000 or 1-800-553-6847, concerning the availability and cost of these publications.

Any questions about this brochure or requests to requisition more than 25 copies of any one title should be addressed to the Office of Production Services (DAMH-PS-E), 103 Third Avenue, Fort Lesley J. McNair, D.C. 20319-5058; Fax (202) 685-4578.

LOGISTICS IN WORLD WAR II: FINAL REPORT OF THE ARMY SERVICE FORCES (1947, first CMH ed. 1993; 292 pp., illustrations). CMH Pub 70-29, paper, GPO S/N 008-029-00262-1, $19.00.

A reprint of the Army's official final report on logistical support during World War II.

THE U.S. ARMY GHQ MANEUVERS OF 1941, by Christopher R. Gabel. (1991; 227 pp., charts, maps, illustrations, appendixes, bibliography, glossary, index). CMH Pub 70-41, cloth; CMH Pub 70-41-1, paper, GPO S/N 008-029-00242-6, $9.50.

A survey of the Louisiana and North Carolina maneuvers, the largest ever conducted by the U.S. Army. These exercises tested emerging assumptions about doctrine, organization, and equipment, demonstrated the abilities of the Army's new field commanders, and helped forge combined arms doctrine. The reaction of Army leaders and their consequent decisions on training show how the Army's battle doctrine was developed on the eve of World War II.

OMAR NELSON BRADLEY: THE CENTENNIAL, by Charles E. Kirkpatrick. (1992, 28 pp., illustrations, map). CMH Pub 71-41, paper, GPO S/N 008-029-00266-3, $1.25.

A historical overview of General Bradley's life and career.

REPORTS OF GENERAL MACARTHUR. These four volumes, first printed by General MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters in 1950, contain a detailed account from MacArthur's perspective of his operations against the Japanese in the Southwest Pacific Area in World War II; they also provide a unique account of operations against MacArthur's forces from the Japanese perspective, material on the military occupation of Japan through December 1948, and many useful maps.

German Studies

The following CMH historical studies were previously published as DA Pamphlets. Except as noted, these studies were prepared by senior German commanders based on their personal experience.

MILITARY IMPROVISATIONS DURING THE RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN (DA Pam 20-201, 1951; CMH ed. 1986; 110 pp.). CMH Pub 104-1, paper, GPO S/N 008-029-00142-0, $5.50.

The massive effort against the Soviet Union forced the German Army and Luftwaffe into tactical and logistical improvisations that would become permanent features of the war in the East.

COMBAT IN RUSSIAN FORESTS AND SWAMPS (DA Pam 20-231, 1951; CMH ed. 1986; 39 pp.). CMH Pub 104-2, paper, GPO S/N 008-029-00143-8, $2.25.

The numerous dense woodlands and swamps that covered the western portions of European Russia presented severe problems for the German invaders and occupation forces.

NIGHT COMBAT (DA Pam 20-236, 1953; CMH ed. 1986; 49 pp.). CMH Pub 104-3, paper.

Combat operations and movements at night became increasingly prevalent as the war in the East dragged on. Initially untrained for such combat, the German Army developed night combat tactics and techniques out of necessity.

TERRAIN FACTORS IN THE RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN (DA Pam 200-290, 1951; CMH ed. 1986; 60 pp.). CMH Pub 104-5, paper, GPO S/N 008-029-00144-6, $3.25.

The numerous rivers, swamps, and forests and the endless steppe lands of the Soviet Union confronted the Germans with extensive tactical and logistical problems unanticipated by planners and largely left unsolved during the campaign.

EFFECTS OF CLIMATE ON COMBAT IN EUROPEAN RUSSIA (DA Pam 20-291, 1952; CMH ed. 1986; 80 pp.). CMH Pub 104-6, paper, GPO S/N 008-029-00145-4, $4.50.

Climatic conditions of European Russia varied from bitterly cold, long winters to dry, hot summers, interrupted by wet, rainy springs and falls that virtually halted all ground movement. The German Army was ill prepared or ill equipped for Russian winters and paid a huge price for its negligence.

GERMAN DEFENSE TACTICS AGAINST RUSSIAN BREAKTHROUGHS (DA Pam 20-233, 1951; CMH ed. 1988; 80 pp.). CMH Pub 104-14, paper, GPO S/N 008-029-00183-7, $9.50.

The Germans had to develop tactics to counter Soviet breakthrough operations. The Germans, especially in the war's early years, were often successful in sealing off and destroying Soviet penetrations.

OPERATIONS OF ENCIRCLED FORCES: GERMAN EXPERIENCES IN RUSSIA (DA Pam 20-234, 1952; CMH ed. 1988; 74 pp.). CMH Pub 104-15, paper.

The Soviet-German war was marked by numerous encirclements, first of Soviet units and, as the war continued, of German units as large as entire armies, such as the 6th Army at Stalingrad. Fighting encircled became a frequent occurrence for German commanders, and their experiences at Klin, Cherkassy, and Kamenets-Podolskiy are related here as well as an analysis of the critical role of air support when fighting encircled.

THE SOVIET PARTISAN MOVEMENT, 1941-1944 (DA Pam 20-244, 1956; CMH ed. 1989; 217 pp.). CMH Pub 104-19, paper, GPO S/N 008-029-00193-4, $17.00.

The great German offensive of the summer of 1941 left large portions of the western Soviet Union in German hands. Scattered partisan bands soon began operations against the German occupiers, quickly growing into a major military force. Prepared by Edgar M. Howell, this study analyzes the Soviet use of partisans both for political purposes and in strategic operations.

SMALL UNIT ACTIONS DURING THE GERMAN CAMPAIGN IN RUSSIA (DA Pam 20-269, 1953; CMH ed. 1987; 289 pp.). CMH Pub 104-22, paper.

Case studies of German infantry, armor, and engineer units from company to battalion level in offensive and defensive actions that also include small unit operations in the Arctic, forests, river crossings, and antipartisan warfare.

WARFARE IN THE FAR NORTH (DA Pam 20-292, 1951; CMH ed. 1987; 24 pp.). CMH Pub 104-24, paper.

From June 1941 through September 1944, German forces fought the Soviets in the Arctic and sub-Arctic as allies of the Finns. This work compares German, Finnish, and Soviet tactics, equipment, and organization and discusses the unique terrain features.

Clinical Series

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE, VOL III: PERSONAL HEALTH MEASURES AND IMMUNIZATION, ed. Ebbe Curtis Hoff. (1955, 1986; 394 pp., appendixes, tables, charts, illustrations, index). CMH Pub 81-7, cloth.

Discussion of such health topics as personnel selection, personal hygiene, clothing, nutrition, preventive psychiatry, and immunization.

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE, VOL VIII: CIVIL AFFAIRS/MILITARY GOVERNMENT PUBLIC HEALTH ACTIVITIES, ed. Ebbe Curtis Hoff. (1976, 1984; 772 pp., tables, charts, maps, illustrations, index). CMH Pub 81-12, cloth.

Public health aspects of civil affairs and military government operations in Allied nations, friendly occupied nations, and conquered nations.

ORTHOPEDIC SURGERY IN THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATER OF OPERATIONS, ed. Mather Cleveland, M.D. (1957, 1984; 368 pp., appendixes, tables, illustrations, index). CMH Pub 81-22, cloth.

The principles of management of injuries, focusing on the role of consultants in standardizing the treatment of orthopedic casualties, who comprised some 71 percent of the 111,125 wounded or injured in the theater.

UROLOGY IN WORLD WAR II, ed. John F. Patton, Jr., M.D. (1987; 506 pp., illustrations, charts, tables, index). CMH Pub 81-35, cloth.

The major urological problems encountered during the war, including each category of disease and injury and the care, treatment, transport, rehabilitation, and ultimate disposition of casualties.

BLOOD PROGRAM IN WORLD WAR II, ed. Douglas B. Kendrick. (1964; 922 pp., appendixes, tables, charts, maps, illustrations, index). CMH Pub 81-28, cloth.

An account of wartime hemotherapy, with separate chapters dealing with clinical experiences with plasma, serum albumin (bovine and human), by-products, so-called blood substitutes, and other intravenous agents. A description of the blood program in the Korean War is included as a study of lessons learned in World War II.

WOUND BALLISTICS, ed. James C. Beyer. (1962, 1984; 883 pp., appendixes, tables, illustrations, index). CMH Pub 81-34, cloth.

Studies in wound ballistics and body armor, and the correlation of laboratory investigations and field casualty surveys.

MEDICAL TRAINING IN WORLD WAR II, ed. Robert J. Parks. (1974; 292 pp., tables, charts, illustrations, index). CMH Pub 80-3, cloth.

Training of physicians, dentists, nurses, others in professions allied to medicine, and the enlisted personnel who made up the teams that cared for some 14 million patients during World War II.

EMERGENCY WAR SURGERY: FIRST UNITED STATES REVISION OF THE EMERGENCY WAR SURGERY NATO HANDBOOK, ed. of rev. ed. Thomas E. Bowen; co-ed. Ronald F. Bellamy. (1975, rev. edition 1996; 446 pp., appendixes, tables, illustrations, index). CMH Pub 83-3, cloth.

Published in 1957 by SHAPE from material provided by NATO nations, the original handbook was designed to standardize the practice of emergency war surgery. Several chapters have been completely rewritten and two new chapters have been added to this revised edition.

World War I

ORDER OF BATTLE OF THE UNITED STATES LAND FORCES IN THE WORLD WAR, 5 vols. (1931-49, facsimile reprint 1988). CMH Pubs 23-1 through 23-5, cloth.

Vol. 1 (CMH Pub 23-1), American Expeditionary Forces: General Headquarters, Armies, Army Corps, Services of Supply, and Separate Forces. Vol. 2 (CMH Pub 23-2), American Expeditionary Forces: Divisions, GPO S/N 008-029-00165-9, $30.00. LEARNING LESSONS IN THE AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, by Kenneth E. Hamburger. (1997; 28 pp., illustrations). CMH Pub 24-1, paper.

An account of how American military leaders moved to adapt existing organizations, tactics, and procedures to meet the demands of emerging situations and of how they identified and systematically corrected problems to ensure the AEF's effectiveness and ultimate success in World War I.

CD-ROM

THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN WORLD WAR I. (1998) EM 0023, GPO S/N 008-029-00342-2, $20.00.

This three disc CD-ROM brings together for the first time all of the Center's existing work on World War I, to include an overview essay, Learning Lessons in the American Expeditionary Forces (Disc 1); the 18-volume documentary collection of selected AEF records of the United States Army in the World War, 1917-1919 (numbered 1-17, with Volume 10 divided into two separate parts), (Discs 1 and 2); the five-volume Order of Battle of the United States Land Forces in the World War (numbered 1-3, with Volume 3 divided into three separate parts), (Disc 3); American Armies and Battlefields in Europe (Disc 3); and World War I print set (Disc 3). For the print set, see p. 37, below.

Revolution and Early Republic

THE CONTINENTAL ARMY, by Robert K. Wright, Jr. (1983, 1989; 451 pp., illustrations, maps, charts, tables, appendixes, bibliography, index). CMH Pub 60-4, paper, GPO S/N 008-029-00122-5, $21.00.

A narrative analysis of the complex evolution of the Continental Army, with the lineages of the 177 individual units that comprised the Army, and fourteen charts depicting regimental organization.

SUPPLYING WASHINGTON'S ARMY, by Erna Risch. (1981, 1986; 470 pp., illustrations, bibliography, index). CMH Pub 40-2, cloth.

A study of developments and operations in the Quartermaster's, Ordnance, Clothing, and Hospital Departments and the Commissariat, illustrating how the Continental Army was maintained in the field.

THE WAR OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION, by Robert W. Coakley and Stetson Conn. (1975, 1992, 1996; 257 pp., maps, illustrations, index). CMH Pub 70-6, paper, GPO S/N 008-029-00091-1, $12.00.

A brief narrative history of the Revolution, with a detailed chronology of military events and a comprehensive bibliography.

SOLDIER-STATESMEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, by Robert K. Wright, Jr., and Morris J. MacGregor, Jr. (1987, 1992; 342 pp., illustrations, appendixes, selected further readings). CMH Pub 71-25, cloth; CMH Pub 71-25-1, paper.

An analysis of the role of Revolutionary War veterans in the writing and ratification of the Constitution and a survey of their role in state and national government. Includes a discussion of the nonveteran signers of the Constitution as well. The 1992 reprint includes four new Appendixes, "Ratification of the Constitution," "The Presidents," "The Judiciary and Military Justice," and "The Bill of Rights."

PAPERS ON THE CONSTITUTION, ed. John W. Elsberg. (1990; 190 pp.). CMH Pub 71-28, paper.

As part of the commemoration of the bicentennial of the Constitution, the Secretary of the Army sponsored a series of lectures by distinguished scholars. This compilation of their papers considers such topics as the role of George Washington and James Madison in the Constitutional process; the influence of British thought on the American Constitution; designing a Constitutional role for the militia; and a reconsideration of the Beard thesis.
